

W. Washburn Heads Newly-formed Business Men's Association

A meeting of the business men was held in the Wainwright Hotel dining room on Thursday evening last for the purpose of organizing a Businessmen's Association. The meeting was attended by quite a number of merchants.

Proceedings were opened with a short address by Mr. H. C. Link, as follows:

"For some considerable time past a number of merchants in this town have felt the lack of some sort of an organization having authority to deal with any matters or suggestions that might arise of interest to the business men and on the request of these merchants all of the business men were recently interviewed for the purpose of ascertaining their feeling towards forming such an Association and it was found that they reacted very favourably to this suggestion and for that reason this meeting has been called tonight.

"We are forming this Association for the purpose of improving business conditions. We want credit in the Association a strong spirit of unselfish co-operation so that our united efforts can be brought to bear to achieve the objects we have in mind. Roughly these objects are as follows:

"To create, if possible, a warmer friendlier feeling towards Wainwright, not only in the people of nearby districts but also in those in the remote districts and settlements, such as no other town has. We want credit in the Association a strong spirit of unselfish co-operation so that our united efforts can be brought to bear to achieve the objects we have in mind. Hockey Team Increase Wins to Five Straight

In one of the fastest and most thrilling hockey games staged here this season the local boys humbled the league-leading Irmales, by defeating them 7-4. From the drop of the puck the fast-skating Irma team set a dazzling pace which the local boys more than made good. Wainwright went into the lead in the first period on goals by Worton and Key. Irma caught the Wainwright forwards up the ice towards the end of the period and Smallwood scored on a pass from Lawson.

On numerous occasions throughout the game and especially during the dying moments of the first period, Benny McGuire, who was between the pipes for Wainwright, kicked out pucks that would do credit to a veteran.

The second period started at the same fast clip as the first and as the scoring indicates, Wainwright had it much their own way. The locals had the Irma defense baffled with their fast passing attack and scored three goals, while halving Irma's scorers. About halfway through this period, Benny McGuire was hit in the face, but pluckily returned to finish the game after the necessary repairs were made.

The third period saw Irma put five forwards on the ice and began to press the play. They ran in two goals in quick succession, Morrison and F. McGuire scoring on passes from F. McGuire and R. McGuire. At this stage of the game, Irma scored a goal which referee Springfield disallowed. An argument was then put up but the referee stood by his decision and the play resumed. From then on the game roughened up and at one time Wainwright only had three men on the ice, but with smart goal tending managed to weather the storm. The two McGuire brothers then combined to score for Irma, Frank being the marksman.

As is often the case when the time is short, the team on the short end of the score sends all its men up the ice and then the leading team break away with no one to beat but the goalie. This happened twice. Russell Ganderton broke away on two occasions for the locals and scored on both trips down the ice.

Referee: Dr. E. V. Springfield.

The regular meeting of the Public School Board was held on January 7th, with all members in attendance.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Principal Thorson reported that schools reopened on January 6th with a good attendance. The high school has an enrolment of 91 with an average attendance of 77.4, and on motion the report was adopted and ordered filed.

The Finance Committee reported bills and accounts of $143.32, and on motion these were accepted and ordered paid.

Assistant Principal Murray reported that despite the closing of the public school during September, the work has progressed very satisfactorily, and that practically the same portion of the various courses of study have been covered as at the time a year ago. Term tests have been given, and the reports issued indicate (with a few exceptions) a satisfactory level of attainment. The report was accepted and filed.

Following a discussion as to whether the Board should send a delegate to the Alberta School Trustees' annual convention to be held in Calgary during the first week of February, it was resolved on motion that the Board do not send a delegate this year.

The report of the attendance officer was received and filed.

The secretary was instructed to inform the secretary of the Town of Wainwright that there will be two vacancies on the Board to be filled at the forthcoming municipal elections.

The meeting then adjourned.

Annual Meeting of St. Thomas' W.A.

St. Thomas' W.A. held their annual meeting in the church on Tuesday evening last, with the Vicar as chairman. The president's address was read in her absence by the Vice-president, Mrs. F. Hart. Reports were also given by the secretary-treasurer, Junior W.A., Superintendent, and the Little Helpers secretary. Election of officers were as follows:

Hon. President—Mrs. A. O. Lasell
President—Mrs. F. Hart
Vice-President—Mrs. J. Taylor
Sec.-Treas.—Mrs. C. N. Bateman (re-elected)
Jr Girls' Sec.—Mrs. A. H. Adams (re-elected)
Little Helpers Sec.—Mrs. W. Miller (re-elected)
Executive—Mrs. L. Bean and Mrs. W. Shearer

The next meeting will be held at the Vicarage on Tuesday evening, February 4th.

Annual Congregational St. Thomas 'Ang.' Ch.

The parishioners of St. Thomas' church held their annual meeting in the Masonic Hall on Thursday evening, January 9th, with a nice representative gathering, the vicar Rev. C. N. Bateman, R.D., being in the chair.

The meeting opened with a short programme of music, songs and recitations.

Reports from all departments were the next order of business, and each showed that much progress had been made, and finances were by no means too good, there being only one outstanding account in all departments.

The organized chair being a new department of the church's work, an interesting report was read by Mr. A. H. Adams. A very special vote of thanks was moved by Mr. C. T. Kelly and Mr. H. Clifton. Mr. J. Huntington for his efforts and splendid results as choir conductor of St. Thomas' choir, and asked him to accept the gift of a handsome silver bon bon dish as a token of the appreciation of the parishioners.

Mr. Adams made the presentation, and also presented a handsome china sandwich set to Mrs. C. N. Bateman for her services as organist.

Election of officers which followed saw Mr. M. G. Cardell elected as vicar's warden, and Mr. E. Moore as people's warden. The Vestry men of 1935 were re-elected with the addition of Mr. J. Wilkins.

Following the business, a nice lunch was served under the co-operation of Mrs. Jack Taylor.

OFFICERS ELECT FOR UNITED CHURCH W.M.S.

The United Church W.M.S. held their annual meeting on Wednesday last, Mrs. T. E. Armstrong acting as chairman in the absence of the president Mrs. H. L. Courser.

After the devotional period which was in charge of Mrs. Armstrong, the following officers were elected for 1936:

Pres.—Mrs. R. T. Wright
1st Vice-pres.—Mrs. T. E. Armstrong
2nd Vice-pres.—Mrs. S. Bowerman
Sec.—Mrs. W. H. Lyle
Treas.—Mrs. H. Vail

Town Health Report Shows Good Standing

The following report of the Medical Health Officer, Dr. H. C. Wallace, as presented to the Council at their meeting last week, shows that the several matters under his supervision are all given a high health-standard rating.

Town of Wainwright.
Health Officer Report for 1935
Sirs:—

I beg to submit the following report:—

Infectious Diseases
In the early part of the year there were a few cases of Scarlet Fever, school was closed for a short time for fumigation. This disease did not become epidemic. During the fall months several cases of "Infantile Paralysis" were reported throughout the Province. Some were reported in the districts tributary to Wainwright, although no cases were reported in the town. As a precautionary measure, during the time the Principal of the school prepared a daily list of absentees. These children were visited by nurse. In this way, a check was kept on all children. Forty-six such visits were made. Later the school was closed for a short time, but I feel that a better check could be kept on the children while the schools remained open. During the winter months (November and December) we have had an epidemic of "German Measles". This has been very mild, and is very difficult to control. At present there is still the occasional case developing.

Immunization and Vaccination
During the year, the Wainwright School Board, gave free Diphtheria, Inoculations and Smallpox Vaccination to all school children, who wished to avail themselves of the opportunity. 168 were inoculated and 145 were vaccinated. The School Board is to be commended for their action. It is unfortunate that preschool children were not also treated.

Dairies
These have been kept according to Provincial Health regulations. Four dairies supply milk to the town. In the Spring, two of these dairies were supplying milk with a butyric acid content below the minimum allowed by the department, but this was later brought up to standard.

Water Supply
A Government analysis was made during the year of samples of water taken from wells in different parts of the town. These were all found satisfactory. It is recommended that the town of most of the wells should be re-paired, so as to prevent contamination.

Scavenging
This has been carried on efficiently during the year. Litter has been kept clean. There is still a lack of private incinerators for the disposal of kitchen refuse. There was some trouble occasioned by the freezing up of one of the sewage systems in the business area, resulting in a back flow into the basement, but this defect has been remedied and should give no further trouble.

Butcher shops, restaurants, hotel, grocery stores and livery barn, have been kept clean.

The local Board of Health met once a month, and held several special meetings when the occasion arose. This board is doing much to preserve the health of our town. The school teachers co-operated with the Board of Health in preventing the spread of disease.

I remain,
H. C. WALLACE, M.D.,
M.H.O.

The regular meeting of the Public School Board was held on January 7th, with all members in attendance.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The meeting then adjourned.

Meat Market in New Hands This Week

A local business change occurs this week with the taking over of the Wainwright meat market by Mr. W. J. Duckfield from Mr. E. Bonner. Mr. Bonner, who has been here for some time coming formerly from Edgerton, is taking up a position with the P. Burns company.

Mr. Duckfield, our new townsmen, comes here highly recommended from Toronto, where he has been in the butcher business for some years, and has been known there as a good mixer and an all-round good fellow. He has been an active curler and is also in demand as an amateur dramatic artist of no mean ability, and The Star extends a welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Duckfield on behalf of the townfolk and the community generally.

We are sorry to know that Mr. Joe Mackenzie has again been under the weather with a severe cold, and wish him better health.

Following a meeting of Directors of The Alberta Pacific Grain Company Limited, held in Winnipeg recently, it was announced that J. R. Murray, general manager of the Company, has been granted leave of absence from the Company in order to enable him to devote his entire time to his duties as Chairman of the Canadian Wheat Board.

Mr. Murray subsequently announced that he had also secured his connections with various other grain companies and companies having any dealings in cereals.

Officers Installed at Eastern Star Lodge

The ceremony of installation of officers took place at the meeting of Comaught Chapter No. 8, order of the Eastern Star, in the Masonic hall last week. The installing officer was Mrs. M. Brunner, past matron, and she was assisted by Mrs. H. Washburn, P.M., as marshal and Mrs. M. Lally, P.M., as organist.

During the evening the newly-installed matron, Miss H. Clifton presented the immediate past matron, Mrs. C. Hannah, with the jewel of her office at the same time voting the admiration of the members for the excellent way in which that lady had graced her position. Refreshments were served following the closing of the chapter.

Officers for the ensuing year are: Worthy Matron, Miss H. Clifton; P.M., Mrs. H. Clifton; V.P., Mrs. H. P. Schmitt; Associate matron, Miss Wittmann; Associate patron, Mr. E. L. Cork; Secretary, Mrs. M. Lepper; Treasurer, Mrs. A. Schmitt; conductress, Mrs. N. Ford; associate conductress, Mrs. E. Cole; chaplain, Mrs. B. Davidson; marshal, Mrs. A. Mackenzie; organist, Mrs. M. Lally; star points, Mrs. C. Hannah, Mrs. I. Hamilton, Mrs. A. Clifton, Mrs. J. Billings, Mrs. A. Alderman; warder, Mrs. M. Crampton; sentinel, Rev. W. S. Brooker.

Wainwright Tennis Players Form Club

Through the efforts of a few of the more prominent tennis enthusiasts a tennis club was formed in Wainwright last week at a public meeting of all those interested, held in the Council chamber.

The reason for the early meeting was that the town has long needed two or three suitable courts for play and if it was left until Spring the season would be over before anything could be done.

Mr. J. Lambeth opened the meeting and briefly covered the reasons for the get-together and then called for the election of officers. The following were elected:

Hon. President—E. L. Cork
President—Dr. E. V. Springfield
Vice-president—Mrs. G. Simpson
Sec.-Treas.—Mr. E. Rudd

The new president then took over the meeting and called upon Mr. Wiley, secretary of the C.N.R.A., to give their viewpoints on the matter.

Mr. Wiley stated that if a feasible amount could be raised by the club, that the organization which he was representing were willing to go ahead and construct two cement courts in the early spring.

It was then suggested that a committee be elected to meet with the C.N.R.A. and take the matter up more definitely. The following were elected on the committee: Mr. G. Simpson, Mr. Sweeney and the President.

Mr. R. H. Torg was a city visitor on business for a couple of days last week-end.

Miss Beale Welch returned last week-end to her duties at Big Valley following the holidays. Upon her arrival she discovered that the school had been closed on account of a measles epidemic.

CAUSE FOR REJOICING AT UNITED CHURCH

The Annual Congregational meeting of the United Church will be held on Tuesday evening January 21st.

Supper will be served at 6.30 p.m. by the Women's Association for the adult members and adherents of the church, which will be followed by the regular business of receiving reports from the various organizations and the election of new officers.

The symbols of former debts are to be destroyed and the gathering should be an occasion for great rejoicing and thankfulness.

Women's Auxiliary Will Burn Mortgage

The home of Mrs. W. S. Clark was the rendezvous of the first 1936 meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the United Church on Wednesday afternoon last, when the new president, Mrs. J. Robinson, presided over the gathering of 32 members.

The annual financial statement for 1935 was presented by Mrs. Bowerman, although this showed that the funds were "badly bent" the association was not absolutely "broke" and that they were now entirely free from debt. This report was received with applause.

After the routine business had been disposed of, it was suggested that plans be made to celebrate the clearing off of the mortgage debt on the church manse, and finally it was decided to hold a banquet for members and adherents of the church at which time the ceremony of "burning the mortgage" is to be conducted.

Quite a number of new members were received at this meeting, which ended with a social hour over the tea-cups.

Town Council Appoint New 1936 Officials at Regular Meeting

Following is a record of the proceedings of the council of the Town of Wainwright at its regular meeting in the council chamber on the 6th day of January, A.D. 1936.

The members of council present at this meeting were Mayor J. G. Middlemass and Councillors Link, Lissimore, McLeod, Welch and Huntington.

The recorded proceedings of council at its regular meeting of December 17th, 1935, were read and on motion by Coun. Welch, were adopted and confirmed as written.

The Royal Alexandra hospital wrote relative to the payment of the account for the hospital treatment of Pun Yee and on motion by Coun. McLeod, this communication was filed.

Dealing with sundry communications from the Royal Alexandra hospital, addressed to Mayor Middlemass, relative to certain accounts submitted to the Mayor in a communication dated August 26th, 1935, it was unanimously resolved, on motion by Coun. McLeod, that the Secretary inform the Royal Alexandra hospital that the account is not responsible for the accounts submitted.

Mr. J. A. MacKenzie wrote in connection with the claim of Mrs. Coderre, submitting an offer of settlement on her behalf by Mr. H. A. Mackie, K.C., on payment of the sum of $60.00, and on motion by Coun. Huntington, it was resolved that the sum of $60.00 be paid to our solicitor in the matter of this claim be to obtain a clear and complete release against the town of Wainwright.

In connection with the moving of the Quigley-McPherson bridge, Mr. C. Wilbraham advised that a delegation has been appointed to interview the Provincial Government and requested that council appoint a delegate to accompany this delegation, and on motion by Coun. Welch, Mayor Middlemass was appointed a delegate by council with power to substitute in case of his being unable to attend.

Mr. E. J. Cotton wrote council relative to the old German field gun.

Church Holds Silver Jubilee Celebration

Last week-end saw the celebration of the Silver Jubilee of St. Andrew's church which was opened here just 25 years ago, and this has marked quite an epoch in the life of the worshippers there.

On Sunday at both morning and evening services the Rev. R. H. Horne, of Saskatoon was the special speaker, and special music by the choir was a feature of the day.

Continuing the celebration on Monday, a public meeting was held in the church with the pastor making an efficient chairman, and the Rev. Dr. Roxburgh giving the address of the evening. Special music was also prepared for this gathering, and much enjoyed by a full congregation of members and friends.

Short reports and addresses were delivered also by leaders of the several organizations of the church during which time the pastor complimented the officials and members for the splendid advancement made in the cause of truth and right during the church's history in Wainwright.

Following the closing economies the ladies of the church served refreshments.

belonging to the Town of Wainwright, requesting permission to remove and mount it near the main gate at the West end of the Buffalo Park, and on motion by Coun. Link, that matter was laid on the table until the next regular meeting.

The Department of Unemployment Relief notified council of the application of Mrs. Myrtle L. Bowers for financial assistance and inquired the disposition of council and on motion by Coun. Welch the secretary-treasurer was instructed to notify the relief office at Edmonton that Mrs. Bowers has not been a resident of this town for over six months and council is therefore not responsible for her maintenance, as this is apparently a case of indigent relief.

The application of Stephen T. Buhl for unemployment relief for his family was placed before council and on motion by Coun. Welch, (Continued on page four)

Two Vacancies on Public School Board

The regular meeting of the Public School Board was held on January 7th, with all members in attendance.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Principal Thorson reported that schools reopened on January 6th with a good attendance. The high school has an enrolment of 91 with an average attendance of 77.4, and on motion the report was adopted and ordered filed.

The Finance Committee reported bills and accounts of $143.32, and on motion these were accepted and ordered paid.

Assistant Principal Murray reported that despite the closing of the public school during September, the work has progressed very satisfactorily, and that practically the same portion of the various courses of study have been covered as at the time a year ago. Term tests have been given, and the reports issued indicate (with a few exceptions) a satisfactory level of attainment. The report was accepted and filed.

Following a discussion as to whether the Board should send a delegate to the Alberta School Trustees' annual convention to be held in Calgary during the first week of February, it was resolved on motion that the Board do not send a delegate this year.

The report of the attendance officer was received and filed.

The secretary was instructed to inform the secretary of the Town of Wainwright that there will be two vacancies on the Board to be filled at the forthcoming municipal elections.

The meeting then adjourned.

Owing to the annual convention of the Alberta division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association being held on Friday and Saturday this week in Edmonton, the Editor will be away for a few days getting the holiday (?) which he feels he so richly deserves!

Farewell Party Given for Jim Lambeth

Monday evening saw a large gathering of the young folks of town at the I.O.O.F. hall, when a surprise party was held for Mr. J. Lambeth, who is being transferred from the local branch of the Bank of Montreal to Calgary.

The party took the form of a dance, music being supplied by the town orchestra. The evening was enjoyed by all present, expressing their regret at losing this lively member of the town's younger set, but at the same time, wishing him success in his new surroundings. In closing he asked the acceptance of a small gift from those present. Jim thanked all present, expressing his regret at leaving all the friends he had made in Wainwright.

The party broke up at a late hour, all having a thoroughly enjoyable time.

TODAY & TOMORROW

SALARIES ability ways to pay them as little as possible. A great deal of publicity is being given these days to the salaries received by the heads of big business enterprises. To superficial thinkers it seems unfair that one man should receive for his services so much more than most men do. It depends, of course, on the value of the service rendered. If one man has the ability to manage the affairs of a big corporation so well that it is able to keep thousands employed, and at the same time earn profits for the capital invested in the business, it wouldn't seem fair to me if he were paid, say at the rate of $1 a year for each employee. I know dozens of cases, though, where the executive head of a big organization gets nothing like that. One of my friends draws a salary of $100,000 a year—but his company employs 300,000 persons all the year round.

The scarcest commodity in the world is administrative ability. Without it, no great enterprise could flourish, and the man who has it is worth whatever he costs.

WORKERS who rise Few wage-earners work as hard as their bosses do. That is my considered belief, based on many years of experience and observation. I have seen so many wage-earners rise through the ranks to high executive posts that I began, years ago, to ask how they gained advancement.

In every case the answer was to the general effect that they always did a little more than they were paid for, liked their jobs, and regarded the company's interests as their own.

While most of them did not rise, it was always clear that these men who started life as manual workers had higher intelligence and better control of their appetites than their fellow-workers.

And they had ambition.

There isn't any other route by which men rise to the high places in our industrial system, but the route of hard work plus intelligence, plus ambition. And they don't stay long in the high places unless they also have the priceless element of character.

WAGES the gauge I talked not long ago with a friend who heads a great nation-wide corporation, about wages.

"What we try to do is to put every dollar that it is possible to put into every employee's pay-envelope," he said. "I know that is true of most great business concerns in spite of the belief which many workers have that the effort is all from you and me. Our money, paid in to the savings banks and the life insurance companies, makes a big pool of money which goes into the bonds and shares of all sorts of money-making enterprises.

I shudder to think what would happen to all of us if the capitalist system was suddenly abolished.

SLAT'S DIARY

Sunday: The preacher at church preached along sermons on care in driven roads and etc. Pa wanted to condemn it for the newspaper by saying the preacher said it takes a 1000 tight nuts to hold a car together but only 1 tight nut at the wheel to 'fart it a part. But the editor would not let him. It's about what the preacher said though.

Monday: From church home, from church with Jane last evening. I got romantic & called her sweet. How's my art. Is it sweet. She said that damn dumb?

Tuesday: Life Grubbs gave his little son a billie goat for Xmas. I didn't find it out no sooner or I would of went over their sooner. But I don't think I like goats. Enyhow not this 1. He sorta gets a disagreeable cat.

Wednesday: A kid's got 1 on Blister. His parents took him down in Dixie wharf it was warm for Santa Cios & Blister seen what he that was a seerks and crolled under the tent and their seen that it was a religes revel.

Thursday: Pa gets things offly bawled up in what he writes for the newspaper on which he writes for. Of lately he has ritten that there was a fine worm dinner and in a nother item said they was stickley fresh pigs for sale at a antek store.

Friday: As it was a rainen this p.m. afternoon, Slim Jeters sed to Eikel Hen that his better 15 was out on town and he was wurried. Never mind sed my unkel shele step into a store and Slim sed that is wot is wurried me.

Saturday: Had a quart with Jane. She cum over to are house and I had the radio raddling. Jane remarked sed she a gentelman is a man that shuts off the sport broadcast when a ladie cum is. I replide is that so and then sed a ladie is a ladie it took 2 years to learn to talk and never learns not 2 talk 2 mutch and then the argment started.

"THE GRAIN FORUM"
RADIO PROGRAMS

"The Grain Forum" radio programme, which commenced over a network of Western stations on Friday, December 6th, is a half-hour feature sponsored by the North West Grain Dealers' Association and the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. It commences at 9:00 p.m. Central Standard Time and 8:00 p.m. Mountain Standard Time.

As its name implies, "The Grain Forum" is intended for the public discussion of matters of special interest to grain producers. Thus in the series to date, brief talks have been given and questions invited on the following subjects: "The World's Foodstuffs and the Place Occupied by Wheat" and "The Winnipeg Grain Exchange, What It Does." On Friday, January 10th, the subject of the talk will be "What the Winnipeg Grain Exchange Does Not Do" and this will be followed on Friday, January 17th, by a talk on "The Factors That Govern and Influence the Price of Wheat." Later in the series, another interesting subject will be discussed, namely "Canada and Her Competitors."

There is of course the danger of a radio programme developing into a one-way affair, but the idea of this particular "Grain Forum" is that producers and all others interested should be represented in the discussions. Therefore, questions relating to all grain problems, or to the subjects covered in the radio talks, are invited from listeners-in, and it is the intention to deal with these questions so far as possible, over the air. All enquiries, in any event, are answered by mail.

But this does not cover all the radio activities of the "Grain Forum" for pleasing and popular entertainment is an essential part of the programme.

One other feature should not be overlooked. A special competition is now under way for bona fide growers of grain or members of their families, who are asked to submit ten-minute marketing speeches on either of the following subjects: "Some Major Problems in Grain Growing" or "Some Major Problems in Grain Marketing."

Prize cash prizes are to be awarded fifteen in number, for the winners' entries and it is to be noted that free expression of opinion is welcomed and will not affect the opportunity of winning a prize. One of the winning contestants will be invited to Winnipeg as the guest of the sponsors of the "Grain Forum."

"The Grain Forum" welcomes constructive criticism and anyone who

This Week in Washington

Without trying to predict what the final outcome will be, this is a good time to take note of the major items with which the second session of the 74th Congress, convening on Friday, January 13rd, will occupy its time.

1. Immediate payment of the Veterans' Bonus. The only apparent open question about this is whether or not the bill as passed will provide for full cash payment or for a special issue of bonds.
2. The Townsend old-age pension proposal. This will stimulate a lot of oratory in both Houses. The Labor lobby will oppose it. The best guess is that the Townsend plan will not be adopted but that the agitation will result in liberalization of old-age benefits under the Social Security Act, which has got to be amended in many respects, anyway.
3. A lot of talk and some pretty hot debates on the Frasier-Lemke Farm Mortgage greenback bill. Little chance, however, of its passage.
4. Government ownership of railroads. Again a lot of talk backed by a well organized campaign of the unionists in favor of it. Action of Interstate Commerce Commission in ordering reduction of railroad passenger rates to two cents a mile, where they are now higher than that—which is all over the East. This will be a demonstrated case of the Government's present power over railroads, and may have a strong influence in bringing holders of railroad bonds into line for Government ownership.
5. Neutrality, Navy, Army. The neutrality question will come up early in the session. The present temper of Congress is to strengthen the neutrality laws. The strong belief prevails that a great war is rapidly approaching, and Congress will not be inclined to keep the State Department alone to keep us out of it. One outcome of the war talk is likely to be liberal appropriations for a bigger navy.
6. Proposals for increasing the army strength will be backed by reports that Mexico is planning an out-and-out Communist Government. This will give strength to the demand for military defenses along the Rio Grande.
7. There will be more debate on proposals to regulate wages and hours of labor. Outlook is for the passage of the Walsh Bill, requiring

GOVT MAY PLACE TAX ON FUEL OIL

The Premier also stated that consideration was being given by the government to placing a tax on all fuel oil and he took occasion to deny that the government contemplated abolishing the refund on fuel oil to farmers using same for agricultural purposes.

The gas tax refund, to farmers for agricultural purposes will be the same," he said, "but we will put a tax on all fuel oil, to circumvent any malpractice that has been going on."

At present only certain grades of fuel oil are taxed and it has been reported to the government that inferior grades have been mixed to get around taxing. So the new measure will get around this.

The Premier said that necessary legislation for his proposed changes would be introduced at the coming session of the legislature.

TO USE GRAVEL FOR PROVINCIAL HIGHWAYS

EDMONTON.— Alberta highways are in future to be surfaced with gravel instead of crushed rock, it is announced by Hon. W. A. Fallow, Minister of Public Works. The decision was reached at a meeting of the cabinet.

The government finds it impossible, said Mr. Fallow on account of the expense, to continue the policy of using crushed rock, the cost of crushing and high transportation charges being the two main factors. His recommendation, approved by his colleagues, was therefore that native gravel be used as far as possible.

In many districts the minister stated, gravel can be obtained in co-operation with the municipalities from pits close to the highways, requiring coarse screening only. The change is to be made, Mr. Fallow pointed out, solely in order to reduce expenditures.

LICENSE YEAR FOR MOTORISTS TO BE CHANGED

Institution in Alberta of a scheme of annual automobile drivers licenses with an annual charge of $1, instead of the 50 cent "in perpetuity" license hitherto in vogue, was announced on Wednesday by Premier William Aberhart.

The premier also announced that as from April 1, 1937, the automobile license year would correspond with the fiscal year and that the current license year, therefore, would be from Jan. 1, 1936 until March 31, 1937 of 15 months in order to satisfactorily make the change.

The drivers licenses were instituted several years ago by the U.P.A. government.

The charge was 50 cents and the driver held that license forever, unless it was cancelled for violation of legislation.

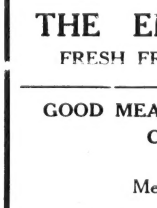

It is estimated that there are now about 4,000,000 pounds of Canadian timothy seed available for export, and in order to increase the use of this Canadian grown timothy seed in Scotland, arrangements have been made at all the Scottish agricultural colleges to test the seed against that imported from other countries.

FERTILIZER ANALYSES
READY SOON FOR 1936

Due to a great measure to the high standards of quality required by the Fertilizers Act, the use of fertilizers in Canada is increasing year by year. Many kinds of fertilizers are offered for sale but all kinds are not suitable to the various crop and soil conditions. Fertilizers should be chosen and used according to the conditions indicated by experimental evidence and practical experience. In this respect, real guidance in the efficient use of fertilizers may be obtained from the nearby Dominion Experimental Farms and the Agricultural Colleges also from the Provincial Fertilizer Councils. These councils are fostered by the Fertilizer Division of the Seed Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture with the object of encouraging the sale of unnecessary and uneconomic brands.

The councils consist of the fertilizer authorities of the various provinces and they publish recommendations every year on the kinds and analyses of fertilizers suitable for the different crops on different soils. Their annual recommendations will be available shortly from the Publicity Extension Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, so that farmers and other buyers may have the benefit of the information before the arrival of the selling agents in the spring.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 15th, 1936

LOOKING AHEAD

TO 1936

All the signs point to the likelihood that the New Year just beginning will be one of the most exciting years we have had for a long time.

In the States the big fact is that this is a Presidential election year and all the indications are that the campaign, which will begin around the Fourth of July and run to November 9, will be the most exciting political episode in our national history since Bryan ran against McKinley in 1896, just forty years ago.

Abroad, it seems quite probable that there will be a major war, involving big European nations, before very long. Again nobody can say with certainty that this war will break out in 1936, but there surely will be enough war talk to keep the whole world in a state of jitter.

Watch for big developments in the scientific and technical fields in 1936. The year just ended saw the establishment of the first air mail passenger service across the Pacific Ocean. It seems to be on the cards that before 1936 is over we shall see the beginning at least, of a similar Trans-Atlantic service.

It would take a brave man to promise that television will be perfected before the year 1936 ends. But it is certain that long strides will be made toward the goal of bringing the world's great events, as they occur, before the eyes of millions of people sitting comfortably in their homes.

No one can be quite certain that we have yet achieved the stable recovery for which we have been looking, but we are certainly on the way. Doubtless there will be setbacks, but there is nothing now to suggest that our general economic situation will be worse when 1937 rolls around, and many signs indicate that it will be better.

The most important thing that will happen in 1936, is what has been happening every year for the last 1935 years, that is the steady growth of the spirit of human brotherhood and goodwill, of justice and righteousness in human relations. For nothing is more certainly true than that in such matters the world has been getting better every year.

It will keep on getting better in 1936.

WHAT TO EXPECT

IN 1936 — LEAP YEAR

This is Leap Year, and in 1936 it will be up to the ladies to make the most of the opportunities, as according to tradition they have the privilege of proposing to timid or backward swains. In regard to holidays, Good Friday will be on April 10th, while Victoria Day, May 24th falls on a Sunday and will be observed on the day following. Dominion Day comes on a Wednesday as does Remembrance Day, while Christmas Day falls in Friday in 1936. And if Boxing Day is observed as a holiday it will give three days in succession, thus allowing for a long week-end visit. For the superstitious we might mention that there are two Fridays falling on the 13th, namely March 13th, and November 13th. There are to be four eclipses in 1936, two of the sun and two of the moon, but only one will be visible in Canada and that only in the northwestern section of the Dominion. On January 8th there was a total eclipse of the moon, the beginning of it visible in northwestern Canada. On June 18th, a total eclipse of the sun, July 4th partial eclipse of the moon, and December 13th an eclipse of the sun none of the three being visible in Canada.

LOCAL NOTES

Mrs. Mary Ganderon was a business tripper to the city last week-end.

Mrs. R. Bell is a patient at the hospital these days and we extend wishes for her speedy recovery.

Rev. Father McGrane was a visitor to town from Irma at the beginning of the week.

If the radio's slim fingers can pluck the melody from out of the night, and totem it over a continental sea; if the petalled white notes of a violin are carried over 194 and dale, mountain and plain; if songs can be pulled through the thin blue air for our invisible enjoyment, why should mortals wonder if God hears pray!

 Remember—Theatre open only four days, commencing next week.

Open Monday and Tuesday, with a complete change of program for each Friday and Saturday, until further notice.

CHOIR ELECTS NEW OFFICERS ENSUING YEAR

At a meeting of the choir of the United Church held at the home of Mrs. W. Clark last week the following officers for that organization were elected.

Vice-pres.—Mrs. W. Huntingford

Sec.—Miss M. D. Librarian—The president

Asst. Lib.—Mrs. M. Ganderon

At the close of the meeting a social time was spent

"BROADWAY BILL"

A COMEDY-DRAMA

At the Elite this week-end is a race track picture, but one of a different nature than the title might suggest. Filled with that atmosphere, both realistically and by illusion, that has made horse-racing the sport of king and commoner, it builds up a vivid action-race sequence and then crashes to a tragedy as a great horse breaks his heart to win and with honors befitting a hero is buried on the track where he ran his epic race.

Dan, although much in love with his wife Margaret, has little desire to be just a cog in the industrial domain of the small town boss, J. L. Higgins. Rising in rebellion, he takes to the road with his horse "Broadway Bill" and Whitey Alice, his sympathetic sister-in-law, follows him to the track.

Becoming broke, he runs into some of his old pals (the Colonel, Happy, and others) who help him along.

Broadway Bill is trained in racing and finally the big day for the race arrives. The odds are against him, but he is out to win.

Don't fail to see how Broadway Bill lives up to his master's hopes. It is showing at the Elite on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, and is a truly remarkable picture.

MISS EVELYN KEMP

HOSTESS AT SHOWER

Some thirty young ladies of town gathered at the home of Miss Evelyn Kemp on Friday evening last, to shower Miss Belinda Anderson, a bride-elect of this week.

The house was tastefully decorated with white streamers and bells, these leading from a chair in the centre of the room; this being later occupied by the guest of honor.

Various contests were enjoyed by all present as well as several piano selections, after which a very realistic "bride and groom" pulling a wagonload of gifts, entered the room to the strains of the Wedding March, and after a fitting pantomime, presented the gifts to the bride-elect, who thanked all present in a few well-chosen words for the many lovely and useful gifts.

A most delightful lunch was then served by the hostess, after which the party broke up, the well wishes of all present being received by Miss Anderson.

COUNCIL APPOINTMENTS

STATUTORY OFFICIALS

The application was approved with authority for the issuing of food to the extent of $12.00 per month.

On motion by Coun. Link, the secretary-treasurer was instructed to write all tenants of property to which the Town of Wainwright has taken title, who are working at the present time, advising them to call at the office of the secretary-treasurer not later than the 25th instant for the purpose of discussing settlement of their arrears of rental.

On motion by Coun. Huntingford, the matter of liability insurance was tabled until the first meeting of the new council in February.

The Finance Committee reported recommending payment of accounts in a total of $3370.18 as follows:

On motion by Coun. Huntingford, the report of the Finance Committee was accepted and incorporated in the proceedings of this meeting and the Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer were authorized to issue cheques in payment of all accounts recommended for payment, in a total of $3370.18.

The Committee on Public Works then reported as follows:

"That this committee attempted to use some of the snow in the main part of town. We found the snow was frozen so badly that unless we used a pickaxe which might damage the sidewalk, the work proceeded very slowly and left the walks in a poorer condition to walk on than before so we did not proceed with this work. As there are very few cars in operation this winter, the citizens are using the roads to walk on and have not complained about the sidewalks. We are waiting to clear the sidewalks, and with much expense.

In previous years we have at the time of the year hauled gravel and rollers to the low places on the town streets. We can in this way utilize labor at a time when they have no other profitable employment, and when our town utility man has more spare time than in the spring or summer. In this way, over a period of years we have built up our streets to a condition where they are economically maintained during the rainy season. The only expense to carry on this work would be the gasoline for the truck which would not cost over 50 cents per day, and a small amount for cinders as there are plenty of them available now. We would later open the gravel pit to avoid the cost of the cinders. We recommend that this work be proceeded with on a moderate scale. The utility truck, which was used as a fire truck since we first bought it, has had very little use and there should be no expense on it this winter.

On motion, by Coun. Welch, the report of the Public Works Committee was accepted.

The Committee on Fire, Light and Utilities, next reported as follows:

"That we interviewed the management of the skating rink in respect to the petition from the junior hockey club, and find that the club demanded a clean sheet of ice for each game; and the charge of $3.00 we consider reasonable. For each game we are informed, the light cost is $1.25 and for gas 25c, leaving $1.00 to be management for each game to cover cost of labor in flooding and preparing the ice.

Your committee found it necessary to purchase a new car battery for the fire truck, and recommend that this purchase be ratified.

On motion, by Coun. Lismore, the report of the Committee on Fire, Light and Utilities was adopted and incorporated in the proceedings of this meeting.

The report from Dr. H. C. Wallace, Medical Health Officer, for the year 1935, was submitted to council by the Health Committee and, on motion by Coun. Huntingford, was accepted and incorporated in the proceedings of the meeting.

This report appears in full in another column.—Ed.

Coun. Lismore presented to council an agreement prepared by the Town Solicitor and duly executed by Mr. J. Telford, dealing with his use of water from the war tank of the Town, and on motion by Coun. Lismore, the agreement was read and accepted and filed.

On motion, by Coun. Welch, the secretary-treasurer was instructed to write the C.N.R. asking a concession in the present year of the agreement re the purchase of cinders.

On motion by Coun. Link, Dr. Gordon Maynes was appointed Medical Health Officer for the Town of Wainwright for the year 1936.

A By-Law for the appointment of a Returning Officer for the next Town Elections was then introduced, given its first and second readings, was read the third time by unanimous consent and finally passed and authorized for its signing and sealing by the Mayor and secretary-treasurer.

On motion, Council was regularly adjourned.

WEDDING BELLS

SPADY—HOLTRY

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was solemnized New Year's Eve, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Holtry, Wetaakivik, when their second daughter, Gladys Isabella, was united in marriage to Henry Lawrence Spady, of Edmonton, son of Conrad Spady of Wainwright. The bride, charmingly attired in a dainty powder blue gown of lace and silk tulle, and carrying a beautiful bouquet of pink and white carnations and ferns, was given away by her father. The bridesmaid, Miss Ivy Smith, wore a lovely yellow organdie dress and carried a bouquet of carnations. The groom was supported by Herb. B. Comrie of Calgary. Rev. A. R. Schrag performed the ceremony under an arch of evergreens, holly and white bells.

After the ceremony the bridal party enjoyed a bounteous wedding supper. The dining room was daintily decorated in pink and white and flowers in profusion adorned the rooms. A lovely three-tier wedding cake centred the table. Rev. Schrag proposed a toast to the bride, which was responded to by the groom.

The guests from out of town were Miss Christine Spady, Edmonton, sister of the groom; Ernest Blades, Mrs. Van Voorhis, Mr. and Mrs. J. Blades, Millet; Herb. B. Comrie, of Calgary.

After a brief honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Spady will be at home at the King George Hotel, at Beiseker, Alta.

Mr. Fred Johns has now gone to work for Mr. John Guthrie, Jr., of Sligo for a few weeks, until Mr. Guthrie recovers from his recent sickness.

Quite a few from this district journeyed to the home of Mr. Robt. Maughan Jr., on Wednesday evening last, to bring Mr. Maughan's 81st birthday. The evening was spent in dancing. At midnight a very dainty lunch was served. Mrs. Warnock presented Mr. Maughan with a little gift from the Aspen Athletic Club. The community wish Mr. Maughan many more happy returns of the day.

Mrs. Luel Wilson visited with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Little, for a few days during the week.

The concert and play put on by the Bloomington young people Friday evening, was well worth seeing. Much praise goes to the actresses who acted their parts well. The dance which followed was also a great success and the music was supplied by the Bloomington orchestra, viz.: Gray Hill, Nick Lasko and Jack Buchanan.

Work at the Dominion Forage Crops Laboratory at Saskatoon during the month of November 1935 was largely confined to purchasing seed supplies for use in connection with the various projects of grass development to be undertaken in the spring of 1936 under the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act. Moderate quantities of registered and certified grades of created wheat grass are available but at a relatively high price. There are adequate supplies of seed of other grasses and legumes available.

THIRD INSTALLMENT

Miss Mudge seemed uncertain of herself and shot a birdlike glance along the table, but no one was paying any attention, except to push her out of the way. As soon as she felt the pressure of bodies around her, Miss Mudge took hold of herself and produced a handful of counters from her bag. She'd show Monte Carlo.

Macduff wondered how long she had been playing this game. He could see from the expression on her face that she had decided her counters were as good as anyone else's. She picked her numbers with care and distributed them defiantly. The wheel spun and she watched it with a puckered, myopic gaze. The counters disappeared with amazing speed and left no trace. Miss Mudge dove into her purse, then shook her head. Her grey straw hat was slipping over one ear from all the pushing and shoving, but she seemed in hilarious spirits, excited by her surroundings.

She suddenly spied Macduff and recognized him for some one from the Marenia. That was enough for her. In a moment she was standing in front of him, twinkling owlishly through her glasses.

DO ANYTHING WELL,

Laugh and the world laughs with you, weep and you weep alone your route.

"Just think, I've been losing all my money," she announced, as if that were an everyday occurrence in her life.

"Well, what of it?" said Macduff ungraciously.

"Oh, I beg your pardon."

Miss Mudge stepped back and he felt impelled to make grumpy amends. "Do you want a lift to the boat? I have a car."

She looked at him questioningly for a moment, then brightened up. "That would be kind of you."

Miss Mudge's elation faded as soon as her cabin door was closed. She sat on the edge of her bed and wondered if it had been so clever of her, after all, to have lost forty of her precious five hundred dollars. She hadn't intended to stake more than a quarter at a time, but she had won five dollars at the start, and that had seemed so exciting that she had gone on and on to ruin. "You're a fool, Alice Mudge," she told herself, severely. "You save and scripp for years and years, and then you spend twenty-five dollars at Madeira for a Spanish shawl and lose forty dollars at Monte Carlo as if you were an heiress."

From now on she would have to be economical. Too much of her money was gone and she was only beginning the cruise.

Miss Mudge took out her diary and proceeded to record her impressions of the day.

The Marenia was easing out of the harbour and the lights were flickering like a forest of lighted candles. The coast line was slowly engulfed in the night, and the boat began to toss in a Mediterranean storm. In a stateroom amidships on C deck, Jenny and Peter Rumford were unpacking their things. Jenny stopped every few minutes to look a little tremulously at Peter, whose attention was all on what he was doing.

"Well, we're off!" His voice had a note of relief. "Perhaps you won't worry so much now, Jenny. There's nothing like the lift of a ship's anchor to lighten the heart."

Jenny moved to his side and slipped her hand beneath his chin. Her voice was beseeching. "Peter! You'll never let me regret what I've done. You, love will justify everything."

He looked at her and smiled. "You must shake off your fears," said Peter.

before. Her head brushed his sleeve and she shivered with joy.

When the music ended, he led her back to a little table. She looked about with an elated air.

"What will you have to drink?" asked Dick, disengaging himself from the fringes of her shawl and spying her pink chiffon dress.

Miss Mudge blushed. "Thank you, see, I'm a White Ribboner."

"A what?" echoed Dick.

"A White Ribboner—testator, you know."

"On, I see. Band of Hope."

He looked at her with a rising gleam of interest. She was really unique, her spirit twinkled brightly through the faded shell of her flesh. It would be fun to tease her a little.

"But you can't possibly go round the world without having a drink," he protested. "It wouldn't be decent. Let me order you something gentle that won't bite."

Miss Mudge was half-persuaded her voice. He laughed at her. "Mordid again! I wish you wouldn't analyse yourself so much. You know if you keep it up, I shall regard you as a little egotist. Women all are, or they wouldn't think that what they say matters so much."

He leaned over her absorbed face and kissed it to a healthy glow. "Be gay, my child, and forget all about yourself," he implored her. "We're only beginning, you mustn't feel like this. Let's go out and look at our shipmates. They're sure to be terrible."

The ship was on fete. Chinese lanterns swung on the after-deck the orchestra played an old Viennese waltz and the sky was powdered with yellow stars four evenings later as the Marenia neared Stromboli. The moon hung low in the sky, like a golden guinea, it was an old story to Dick, leaning against the rail, smoking a cigarette and watching with cynical interest.

His attention wandered over the dancing couples. He wasn't interested in pretty girls at the moment, but he supposed he had to dance with some one. Men were so scarce. His glance came to rest on the little teacher from Cabin 454. She was sitting by herself in a corner, enveloped in a Spanish shawl, with poppies too large for her size.

The handsome officer she had seen about the boat was moving in her direction.

"Won't you dance with me?" asked Dick, bowing formally over her. She snatched at the fringe of her shawl and looked at him in confusion. She was much too nervous to rise to his feet.

"Oh, do come," he urged her. "This is a good time."

A flock of nervous fears went chasing one another across Miss Mudge's sensitive face; then something propelled her to her feet.

Miraculously Miss Mudge's step was suddenly in tune with the chief officer's, and he had her firmly clasped by the Spanish shawl, whirling her around with such speed that she soon forgot about her feet. Her head swayed with excitement and she caught a whiff of tobacco that made her faint. She had never been so clutched to a man's chest like this

"How about turning in, Angela? You're looking tired." His voice was solicitous. She was suddenly ravaged under her make-up.

"I am, rather. Dancing at sea makes one very tired. I'm sitting up, I think, and the bumpy deck."

"But you've scarcely danced at all, Angela," said Lovat a little crossly.

"Yes but I feel those things, darling."

She would be below and unhooked her period costume. She took off her powdered wig, but it was scarcely whiter than the smooth hair beneath it. Turning her back on Lovat, she slipped into the loveliest of her negligees, black lace over apricot chiffon.

"You'll be gone from me in five days," she told him. "I wonder if you will miss me when you are back in England."

"I shall simply be lost without you," he assured her.

"Ah, Lovat, Angela's voice was a sigh. "How I shall miss you! Besides, I shall be five months older when I come back."

"You'll always be the same to me," he said, and stooped to kiss her hand. She leaned over his head and her lips brushed the dark lacquer of his hair. The mirror revealed the widening path that stretched between them. Angela turned from the sight of his youth.

"Whatever happens, I shall still adore you," she said.

Lovat studied her as she lay on the pillow, the tenderness of her mouth, her sensitive nose, the way her hair swept back from her ears; but the mask of age was set as she lay in the semblance of sleep.

He slipped into his dressing-gown and sat with a book under the reading light. Half an hour passed and he scarcely moved. At last he was sure of her regular breathing and the relaxed look of her face. She must be asleep.

He put down his book, snatched off the light, stole to the door and through the curtain that flapped as Lights leaped in her eyes; she nodded her head. Dick decided to get her a creme de menthe. She sat very straight in her chair, with her hands folded nervously under her shawl. At times she shot timid glances at her companion, not quite sure what he might be going to do next. The drinks came, and Dick toasted her.

"Happy days on the Marenia!" he said.

Miss Mudge had never been toasted before, but she smiled and said, "Thank you, and took a swallow—there wasn't very much of it—such a little glass. It surely couldn't go to her head. Suddenly she giggled and set down her drink.

"What's up?" Dick enquired.

"Oh, I was just thinking of Ontario."

"What's Ontario?"

"Ontario, Wisconsin—the place I come from." She seemed to be saying, "It isn't possible that you have not heard of Ontario."

"Nice place?"

"Very. I teach there, but I'm having a sabbatical year to see the world."

"I hope you won't be disappointed."

"Oh no!" Miss Mudge's voice was fervent. "It's wonderful!"

The music had started again, and his companion's face waved again, signals across the table. He swung her to her feet and they danced again a waltz this time. She clung to him more confidently now, and he smiled down at her as if she were the only woman in the glittering salon. He took her back to her seat and made his adieu, covering her embarrassment with his protective air. Should she go on sitting where he had left her, or should she slip back to her quiet place by the television set? The chief officer was dancing now with Miss Foster! Her lovely arms were twisted around his neck. Nevertheless, he remembered Miss Mudge sitting alone in her corner and tossed her a scarlet balloon. She held it aloft for a moment and smiled at him. Then she let it out the air and put the deflated bauble in the black satin bag that Agatha had given her for evening wear. Her first souvenir!

"Clear, an enticing Cleopatra, she still danced with Lovat, a Spanish grandee. Angela watched them over her creme de menthe frappe. She could see her husband's fingers were deeply sunk in an exquisite back. At last he relinquished his partner and moved smoothly toward her.

"How about turning in, Angela? You're looking tired." His voice was solicitous. She was suddenly ravaged under her make-up.

"I am, rather. Dancing at sea makes one very tired. I'm sitting up, I think, and the bumpy deck."

BANNER WINTER RECIPES

Here are two interesting recipes calling for the use of natural, un-sweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice. The pudding may be stored in its closed container in the refrigerator for several weeks and reheated by steaming for forty-five minutes. The milk shake is just the thing after a game of bridge.

Steamed Fruit Pudding
1 cup chopped suet
1 cup molasses
1 cup Hawaiian pineapple juice
3 1/2 cups flour
2 teaspoons cream of tartar
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon mace
Grated rind of 1 orange, or 1 lemon

Combine the suet, molasses and pineapple juice. Sift together twice the flour, cream of tartar, soda, salt, and spices, and stir into first mixture. Add the remaining ingredients. Grease mold or empty coffee can and fill 2/3 full of the mixture leaving room for it to rise. Cover and place on a rack in a deep, covered kettle and steam 5 hours. Serve with hard-sauce or any desired liquid sauce. 12 to 14 servings.

Hard Sauce
4 tablespoons butter
3/4 to 1 cup powdered sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon Hawaiian pineapple juice
Cream butter thoroughly. Add sugar and flavoring gradually. Chill 4 servings.

Pineapple Milk Shake
4 cups milk
1 cup Hawaiian pineapple juice
4 scoops ice cream (vanilla)
Place all ingredients in a mixer or Mason jar, and shake well. Malted milk may be added, if desired. 4 servings.

WAFERS AND COOKIES

Good old standbys—these wafers and cookies. Just the thing for the lunch box, after bridge, buffet lunch, the Ladies' Aid Society. But vary the contents of your cookie jar. Here are two recipes that will help you do this:

Brazil Nut Wafers
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cups brown sugar
1 egg
2 tablespoons water
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cups sliced Brazil nuts
Cream butter, stir in sugar, add egg and water. Add flour mixed with nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a baking sheet, greased with unsalted fat or oil, at least two inches apart. Bake about seven minutes in a moderate oven, 325 degrees F., or until brown. Remove from oven, let stand half a minute and remove from baking sheet with a spatula. If last wafer gets too hard to remove easily, return to the oven for a minute and then remove.

Brazil Nut Macaroni Cookies
2 egg whites
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup ground Brazil nuts
Beat egg whites until foamy but not dry. Beat in sugar and salt gradually. Add ground nuts and drop by teaspoonfuls on an ungreased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., 15 to 20 minutes, until light brown. Remove from pans at once.

WINTER Dainties
I call these delicious rennet-custard dishes "Winter Dainties", but the ship rode noisily on her way.

Two dark eyes caught his jubilant small-boy air as he slipped past the shaft of light. Angela turned to the wall and burning tears rolled slowly down her cheeks.

try them once and you will repeat them long after Winter has gone. Are eggs high? These rennet-custard demerets contain no eggs and need none in preparation. That should mean something to the economical city housewife, or to the country cook who likes to market her eggs when prices are soaring.

Orange Fig Surprise
1 package Orange Rennet-Custard Powder
1 pint milk
4 fig newtons
First break fig newtons into small pieces, and place in the bottom of the dessert dishes, then dissolve Rennet-Custard Powder in lukewarm milk, and pour immediately over the fig newtons. Do not disturb until firm—about 10 minutes. Chill in refrigerator.

Vanilla Rennet-Custard With Fruit Fluff
1 package Vanilla Rennet-Custard Powder
1/2 cup whipping cream
1 large or 2 small navel oranges
1 pint milk
4 cups sugar
Prepare rennet-custard according to directions on package. Chill in refrigerator. Whip the cream, adding 1/4 cup sugar just before the cream is stiff. When ready to serve, top the rennet-custard with the whipped cream, and across the cream place sections of orange. If the orange is large, use four 1/2 sections; if small, use four whole sections for each dish of rennet-custard.

The following recipes, each for 12 servings, are recommended for this time of the year, when entertaining is general, by the Milk Utilization Service Dairy Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

CHEESE SALAD

1 tablespoon gelatine
1/2 cup cold water
1 cup pineapple juice
1 lemon (juice)
1 can crabmeat
1 cup white cream or cottage cheese
1 cup whipping cream
Pinch of salt
Soak gelatine in cold water. Dissolve in hot pineapple juice. Add lemon juice. When chilled and partially set mix in crabmeat and fold in cream, whipped and blended with the cream cheese. Pour into moulds. Unmould and serve on slices of pineapple. Garnish with sections of grapefruit.

MOULDED CHICKEN SALAD

2 tablespoons gelatine
1/2 cup cold water
1 cup cooked salad dressing or mayonnaise
1 cup whipping cream
1 cup Malaga grapes
1 pineapple, orange or grapefruit
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups chicken (or turkey) dried
1/2 cup almonds, blanched and browned
2 tablespoons green pepper or pimiento
1 tablespoon of each
Soak gelatine in cold water. Dis-

TOMATO CHEESE SALAD

2 tablespoons gelatine
1/2 cup cold water
1 1/2 cups tomato juice
1 slice of onion
1 bay leaf
1 cup tomato juice
1 cup cream or cottage cheese
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Salt to taste
1 cup whipping cream
Few pepper berries
Soak gelatine in cold water. Simmer the 1 1/2 cups tomato juice with onion, bay leaf and pepper, 5 minutes. Strain and dissolve gelatine in hot tomato juice. Add Worcestershire sauce. Combine mixture. Season to taste. When partially set fold in cream, whipped until stiff. Turn into large or individual "ring" moulds. Chill, unmould and arrange on beds of lettuce. Fill centre with chicken salad.

AN EXTRA JOY FOR SANTA'S REINDEER

Old Saint Nick's reindeer this Christmas had approximately 100,000 extra calls to make, upon kids in all parts of the Dominion, thanks to the Boy Scouts. The gifts were produced by a coast-to-coast chain of toy making and toy repair workshops, from Sydney to Prince Rupert. While the main distribution was among children in urban centres, many thousands of gifts went to fishermen's families along the Nova Scotia coast, to families in the coal fields, east and west, and to prairie homesteaders. In addition to individual family parcels mailed from eastern shops, large bulk shipments of reconditioned playthings went from London, Ont., Montreal and Ottawa to help the Scouts in Moose Jaw, Regina and Saskatoon meet the heavy demand in their districts. It was the Scouts' 12th annual "big Christmas good turn."

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS

We wish to sincerely thank those subscribers who have renewed their subscriptions during the past few weeks. To those who have not renewed we would ask them to examine the address label on their paper in order to ascertain whether their subscription to the paper is paid up to date, and if not, to send the amount owing as soon as possible. It is not easy to remind separately each person who is in arrears, and while each such may consider that the few dollars he or she owes are not worth bothering about, yet in the aggregate they may amount to a great deal and be of considerable importance to the paper. It is only fair if the paper is read that it should be paid for, and we therefore take this means of asking our readers not to overlook the little matter.

Lawyer's in Crime

(By Courtney Ryley Cooper in Reader's Digest)

I quote from the confession of a woman member of one of the most desperate criminal bands in the United States:

"I turned my money and jewelry over to an attorney to keep for me and told him to tip off the rest of the mob to get out of town."

So the gang fled the town, ne- cessitating the assumption of a search which cost thousands of dol- lars. Men whose crimes had included murder and kidnapping were enabled to run free.

The money and jewelry used to pay this attorney were the results of crime and he knew it. Yet this man continues to practice before the courts of a large city, and bears a title which should stand for the highest of all ethics: "Attorney at law."

If this were an unusual case, it would not be worth mentioning. I must report, however, that such men are neither unusual, nor are they outcasts; a degree of lethargy has been allowed to develop whereby the renegades and scavengers of the legal profession are submitting the entire fraternity to criticism. The Department of Justice, which I have the honor of heading, intends to do all in its power to end that condition but, to be successful, it must have the support of the public and of the vast body of ethical at- torneys.

It may be a jolt to the average citizen to know that a lawyer crim- inal will defend a man with full knowledge of his guilt. The truth is that many lawyer criminals do not care to defend a client who insists upon his innocence. For them, it makes the case too difficult. An acquittal is far more easy to obtain if the attorney knows every move that was made in the commission of the crime; where the defendant started from, whom he saw, how much money was obtained and what became of it. With all these facts in his hands, he may prepare to checkmate every move made for conviction. Perjured alibis can be obtained, witnesses may be investi- gated to find something in their past life to keep them off the wit- ness stand. Others can be bought off and sent beyond the jurisdiction of the court. Witnesses for the defense can be rehearsed in a set story. There is the instance of one man who has the reputation of being a wizard of sorts in fooling courts and juries. Instead of being kindly with his client on the stand, he shouts and yells and apparently subjects him to a cross-examination instead of a direct one. But his client answers this fusillade of questions in a quick, straight- forward manner. It is natural for the jury to become sympathetic.

It is all fakery, crookedness and chicanery. The attorney has trained the culprit in ten kinds of answers, one of which will fit any question he may ask. Then, he signals, by his gestures, for the answer he wants. What seems to be an honest testimony is merely a well-rehearsed stage show, put on for the grim pur- pose of releasing a dangerous enemy of society.

I presume some readers will give this lawyer great credit for clever- ness. That is the sad part of it; this American trait which worships adroitness in any form is one of the prime reasons why the United States staggers under the disgrace of being the most lawless nation in the world.

At times to my suggestions there have come some surprising resis- tions. One of them was voiced thus: "Well, what are we, as bar asso- ciations, going to do? This crook has a reputation for being the clever- est lawyer in the community. Every- body knows he's tricky. They like him for it. The newspapers play up his coup; whenever he has a big case. The people in the street laugh at the show he puts on during a trial and crowd the courtrooms to watch him. His office is full of clients; he makes more money than a hundred honest lawyers I know. This may happen in your own town. The citizen who laughs over some buffoonery of an enable- ment might not be so pleased if he really understood how much he was paying for his pleasure. I have before me the record of a man who has been arrested 96 times, on charges running all the way from minor infractions to those involving attempted homicide and actual murder. Out of this total, he was vic- timized only once and was sentenced to two years at Leavenworth.

Certainly, law-enforcement offi- cials cannot be wrong 95 times out of 96. Certainly, also, the "right" kind of skillful, shrewd, unscrupu- lous attorneys, plus their political affiliations, had something to do with those 95 verdicts of freedom. Somebody had to pay for those 96 trials. Dependents lost their sup- porters in the households of which he was so speedily whitewashed. The cost, just like any other cost, came out of the taxpayer's pocket.

Here is another case which will show to what lengths a lawyer crim- inal will sometimes go. Several years ago a gangster named Dam- lani was arrested, charged with mur- der. Damlani insisted that he was a poor man. Nevertheless a lawyer named Siegal came from another city to represent him at once, and had plenty of money to spend on the case. Damlani soon announced that he had an alibi defense; he had been in jail at the time of the murder. The place of incarceration he refused to reveal, saying it would come out at the trial.

The important feature in this case was that here was a lawyer who was willing by illegal methods to free a person accused of a loath- some murder. Remember this case the next time you feel like applaud- ing some clever piece of work by a lawyer criminal.

Perhaps one reason that com- munities do not shun the well-dress- ed, opulent trickster lawyers and do not insist upon their disbarment or imprisonment is that many persons believe that an attorney has a right to do almost anything to free a client. Of course a man is not guilty simply because he is accused of a crime, and even a criminal must be permitted his day in court, with the aid of competent and upright coun- sel. Nevertheless, we must not for- get that every lawyer is an officer of the court, and that, therefore, his zeal for his client must not eclipse the sanctity and purity of a fair and orderly administration of justice.

Recently, in Chicago, the Depart- ment of Justice attempted to send an attorney to prison on a charge of having harbored John Dillinger. The lawyer announced from the wit- ness stand that Dillinger had come to him almost directly following his escape from the Crown Point jail. He told of many meetings with Dil- linger while every law-enforcement official in the country was searching for this killer. He testified that he urged Dillinger to surrender but that the bandit refused. He freely testified that he accepted $3,000 from the gangster, but said that it was for legal fees. He said these ac- tions, he insisted, he was wholly justified, under the provisions for confidential relations between a lawyer and his client.

Further, he stated that his numer- ous meetings with Dillinger were as an attorney with his client, and that one of his objects was to obtain a promise from a certain judge that, in the event of Dillinger's surren- der, he would be sentenced to life imprisonment and not be executed. The Government contended that the meetings were for the purpose of harboring Dillinger, especially with a view to having a face-lifting opera- tion performed, and to mutilating the bandit's fingers so as to change his fingerprints. The jury chose to believe the attorney's story and sanctioned his actions by acquitting him.

It is useless for me to say that I am utterly disgusted with the outcome of that case. I insist that it is the province of no attorney, no matter how much money he is being paid, to regard the matter of con- fidential relations as sufficiently sacred to call for the concealment of the presence of a dangerous and notorious fugitive from justice. The lawyer, after all, is an officer of the court.

The Department of Justice can deal with a dishonest attorney only when he contravenes a Federal criminal statute. To purge the leg- al profession, therefore, it must call for aid. That call I now issue. It is to every bar association, to every court and to the public. The evil consequences of alliances between respectability and crime are mani- fest on every hand. The underworld, coached, protected, drilled in testi- mony, fostered by bribery and chi- canery, too long has been permitted to lay tribute upon decent citizens and honest industry.

In the last analysis, the whole question reverts to public will. In municipal, county and state courts, where judges are chosen at general elections, there is a wide play for public opinion. Once judges are given assurance that they have pub- lic opinion on their side, they can proceed upon a course highly amenable to their desires—to clear the benches and the legal profession of the horde of scavenging lawyers who feed on crime.

CUSTOMERS HAVE TO BE BOUGHT

Worth while things cost money. This means that retailers must part with money in order to get custom- ers. Customers require to be bought just as one's merchandise has to be bought.

Customers are not likely to be obtained apart from seeking them. They must be pursued and they must be asked to do business with the retailer who wants their cus- tom, says an exchange.

You would think that all this is as plain as is the nose on one's face. But stop! Answer this ques- tion: What have you, a retailer, done in the past month—to go no farther back—to seek and get new customers? How many non-customer- ers of your store have received in- vitations from you to do business with you? How many persons have received communications from you, requesting their custom? How many persons have you informed, in their homes, about your business, your merchandise, your policies? How much money have you spent this past month on the purchase of customers?

Just waiting for customers is the acme of folly. Just relying on the conviction that the public ought to do business with you is folly. Just soothing yourself with the reflec- tions that you are honest, that you gave the public a square deal, that your store has a good location, that you price merchandise fairly these are passive things.

It is action which counts in get- ting the things which we want. An infant cries. This is its way of mak- ing its mother or nurse know that it wants something. Is it fair to a business to be doing nothing in a planned way to get customers for it?

PREDICT MORE MONEY FOR FARMERS IN 1936

Canadian farmers will probably have more money to spend during 1936 than was the case in 1935. In- creased prices for most of the farm products, with the volume of the 1935 crop about equal to that of 1934, has placed the farmer in this improved position. In addition, the gradual expansion of industrial ac- tivity and moderate improvement in employment are contributing fac- tors to an anticipated betterment in demand from within Canada. These facts are pointed out in the "Agricultural and Outlook" which is to be issued shortly by the Dominion Department of Agricul- ture and Trade and Commerce.

The "Outlook" in surveying the Canadian market for farm products points to the conditions existing in various other Canadian industries, such as mining, lumbering, construc- tion and the iron and steel industry. Changes in the activity of these in- dustries has a very real effect on the demand for farm products. The inter-relation of agriculture and in- dustry in Canada makes it neces- sary for farmers as well as business men, to understand the situation in other fields of activity.

The following story is worth pass- ing along: The story is being told of Deputy Sheriff Fred Williams that he does not know his bird dogs, although an ardent hunter. Two years ago, so it is said, he had a female bird dog that he figured would never be any good. Being soft-hearted, he gave a friendly fifty cents to kill her. This friend hunted a bit and finally sold her for $25.00. She began showing up well and Sheriff Cecil Taylor paid $10 for her, giving her to his brother, Jake Tay- lor, in Paris. Jake entered her in a show at Mexico this fall, winning first prize and later refusing $300 for her. She has produced him six puppies, two of which have been sold for $50 each."

MONEY TALKS

—But you must tell it what to say!

Let's suppose that the dollars you spend were suddenly given minds of their own—and the job of deciding what to buy for you.

They'd have to learn their way around in a hurry. And one of the first things they'd do would be to study the newspapers—every advertisement that discusses something you'd be needing, or wanting. They'd get the latest facts on automatic refrigerators and sport shoes and tea and motor oil and all the rest. They'd make a business of knowing what, when and where to buy.

Are you less careful and less constant in your ad-reading than you should be? Do you have to depend on other people for facts that are clearly stated in the advertising pages of this newspaper?

Read advertising thoughtfully, consider all the points you find there on their merits. Find out in advance exactly what things will best serve your needs—and why. After all, that's the only way to get your money's worth every time.

The real reason for advertising is not to help some one sell something, but to help you buy what you want.

NEWS & VIEWS OF TOWN AND DISTRICT

Mrs. Dave Hutchison had a narrow escape from serious injuries by fire at her home on First Avenue last week. It appears that in standing too closely to a gas radiant the lady's dress caught fire and the flames spread so rapidly that it was only removed with difficulty by the members of her family. Fortunately Mrs. Hutchison was only slightly burned through the accident.

Bill Cowley's rink returned from the Edmonton bonspiel with first prize in the consolation event. This consisted of four nice tea sets. For winning the third prize in the same event, Frank Fish's rink are now wearing nice new shirts.

In taking over the Wainwright Meat Market today (Wednesday) Mr. W. Duckfield will be assisted by Mr. W. Belamy of Tofield, who has been in the business there for the past 25 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Martin and young son are leaving today to spend the winter in San Francisco, where Mr. Martin was engaged in the real estate business for several years. He still has interests in that city which require his attention. Mr. Albert Rattray is to have charge of the elevator during Tom's absence.

Brought in from her home at Fabyin, Mrs. H. LePalm is a patient at the hospital these days.

At the weekly whist party of the W.A. of St. Thomas church Miss C. Burden, Miss B. Shearer, Mr. H. Smart and Mr. J. Taylor were the lucky players on Monday last. It is planned to have a series of these gatherings for the next few weeks with a weekly prize and a grand aggregate at the close of the series.

Owing to a mix-up in the mailing we have not received our usual crossword puzzle for this issue but hope to resume with the next issue. The answer to last week appears in today's Star.

Among those who received their little "billet doux" from Billif Bill Pigeon for appearance on the jury of the Supreme Court next Monday are Mr. E. L. Cork and Mr. F. E. McLeod.

Last Saturday's snowstorm and blizzard was probably one of the worst experienced this winter, and left the roads in such a condition that traveling was absolutely impossible for a couple of days. Spring is on the way, though!

All members of the Rebekah degree are requested to turn out to the regular meeting tomorrow (Thursday) evening when the degree will be conferred on another candidate and refreshments will be served.

The Rev. Dr. Roxburgh, of Edmonton, who was here on Monday as principal speaker at the Silver Jubilee celebration of St. Andrew's (Pres.) church, gave us a call and reminisced with us for some considerable time.

A couple of town rinks of curlers are attending the bonspiel at Viking this week. Messrs. Bonner and Washburn, being the skips for the party. We wish them the very best of luck, after their very cold drive on Tuesday.

Business engineers have made an intensive study of color combinations and their effect on the human mind, and are using his knowledge in lights and so forth to educate the public that the depression is over. It is time to again enjoy the comforts of life. Wallpaper designers are following this trend, and this year's patterns with their soft blended tones are more beautiful than ever. The Atlas Lumber Co. have just received their 1935 shipment of Summery high-grade wall-papers direct from the manufacturers. They invite you to call and see these. Joe Welch.

Jimmie Lambeth of the Bank of Montreal, left today for his new appointment at the head office of the bank in Calgary.

While watering cattle on her farm at Hope Valley, Mrs. Karluk in being crowded against a fence by some of the animals, was so badly injured that an operation had to be performed after her arrival at the local hospital. She is now recovering nicely.

The snowplow has been busy this week in opening up the highway between Tofield and Viking. Owing to the bad storm last week-end the city bus had to cancel their trip to town. A contract has now been entered into to have the plow keep the road open, so we are informed.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Smith of the National Park, have moved into town for the balance of the winter, and are in residence at the Wainwright hotel.

The Paeschendale school is closed for a short period on account of a number of cases of measles in that district in which the teacher is sharing.

The hockey match which was scheduled for Sunday afternoon last between Tofield and the town boys had to be postponed owing to the Saturday storm blocking the highway. We understand that this game will be played on Sunday afternoon next at the local rink.

Be sure and bring in your application forms when applying for your car and truck licenses. Joe Welch at the Atlas.

The Secretaries and auditors of the local municipal bodies are all busy these days preparing for the several annual meetings.

A party of nearly 40 people paid a surprise visit to the home of Mr. Robt. Mauchon on the occasion of his 91st birthday on Jan. 8th. The evening was spent in music and dancing, and the guest of honor was the recipient of many nice presents.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. Fred Watts is sick at the hospital and wish him better.

The A.Y.P.A. held a business meeting at the vicarage on Monday evening when plans were completed for their annual Valentine dance which is dated for the Elste on Feb. 13th next.

WEDDING BELLS

WILKINS-ANDERSON

A very popular and pretty wedding was held at St. Thomas' church on Sunday afternoon last, January 12th, at 2:30 p.m. The contracting parties were Miss Blenda Elda, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivor Anderson, and Percy Birdell, third son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wilkins, both of Wainwright.

The bride who was prettily attired in flowered crepe and brown hat, with accessories to match carried a bouquet of daffodils and fern and was given in marriage by her brother Mr. Adolf Anderson. Miss Kathleen Baer who attended the bride was attired in silver grey crepe, with black hat and carried a bouquet of carnations and daffodils. The groom was supported by Mr. Howard Renville.

Several relatives and friends attended the ceremony, which was conducted by Rev. C. N. Bateman, R.D.

The altar was very pretty with its white frontals and the super with its vases of pink and white carnations. During the signing of the register "O Perfect Love" was sung by Mrs. C. N. Bateman.

The wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wilkins. A three-tier wedding cake and vases of daffodils and carnations centered the heavily laden table. Wedding guests included Mr. and Mrs. Percy Wilkins, Mr. and Mrs. I. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Anderson, Miss K. Baer, Miss E. Kemp, Rev. and Mrs. Bateman, Messrs. Howard Renville and Geoffrey Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Wilkins will be in residence on Sixth avenue.
